Culture and Communication Skills Consultancy

Communicaid

Communicaid

Communicaid is a Culture and Communication Skills Consultancy. We enable our clients to create long-lasting, profitable international relationships by constructing cultural bridges that enhance understanding and build trust.

Our clients include many of the world's leading organisations including GSK, BP, Shell, Dell, Barclays and Novartis, as well as distinguished UK public sector organisations such as the Ministry of Defence and the Foreign & Commonwealth Office.

Expertise in World Languages

With an unrivalled team of more than 600 language trainers delivering training in over 65 languages and minority dialects per year, Communicaid is uniquely placed to meet the foreign language needs of all international corporate and public sector organisations around the world.

We have over 15 years' experience of collaborating with our clients to provide innovative, flexible and cost-effective foreign language courses. Furthermore, our team of dual-qualified trainers who combine professional or industry expertise with a training background will ensure that your language course meets your requirements. So, whether your need is for beginner level French or specialist technical Russian, you can rest assured that Communicaid will be able to match your needs.

Training solutions are available in both intensive and extensive (ongoing) formats and are designed according to your requirements and objectives. We also offer immersion training through our global network of partner organisations.

Culture & Communication Skills Consultancy

Approach

Our tailor-made programmes allow you to benefit from a course that truly meets your needs. Focusing on your language and communication skills, the content of each programme is personalised for your profession, job function and skill area. This allows us to offer you targeted training that focuses on your specific needs – so, whether you require fluency development or wish to build your range of specialist vocabulary, Communicaid will design a unique programme for you.

Courses Available Worldwide

We work with clients across the globe and have an international presence to meet your worldwide requirements. In addition to delivering courses at our centres in London, Paris, Frankfurt and New York, we enjoy global contracts with many leading organisations where we deliver our programmes in multiple city locations across the world, including most recently in Manila, Nairobi, Johannesburg and Vancouver.

Each programme is designed with your unique requirements in mind and this includes the most appropriate venue for you and your organisation.
